

COMBINING MY INTERESTS

Your Interests are how you express your Foundation—they bring you to life. When you're doing something that interests you, chances are, it will feel more like play than like work. You may change throughout your life, but you will still express your Interests through your hobbies, jobs, or everyday activities.

Browse through the Interests and add any you think are missing.

- INTERESTS -

Numbers	Film	Philosophy and Religion	Action Sports
Radio	Government	Television	Fashion
Music	Business	Non-Profit Organizations	Engineering
Art	Education	Design	Environment and Nature
Medicine	Journalism	Sports	Politics
Acting and Theatre	Writing	Food

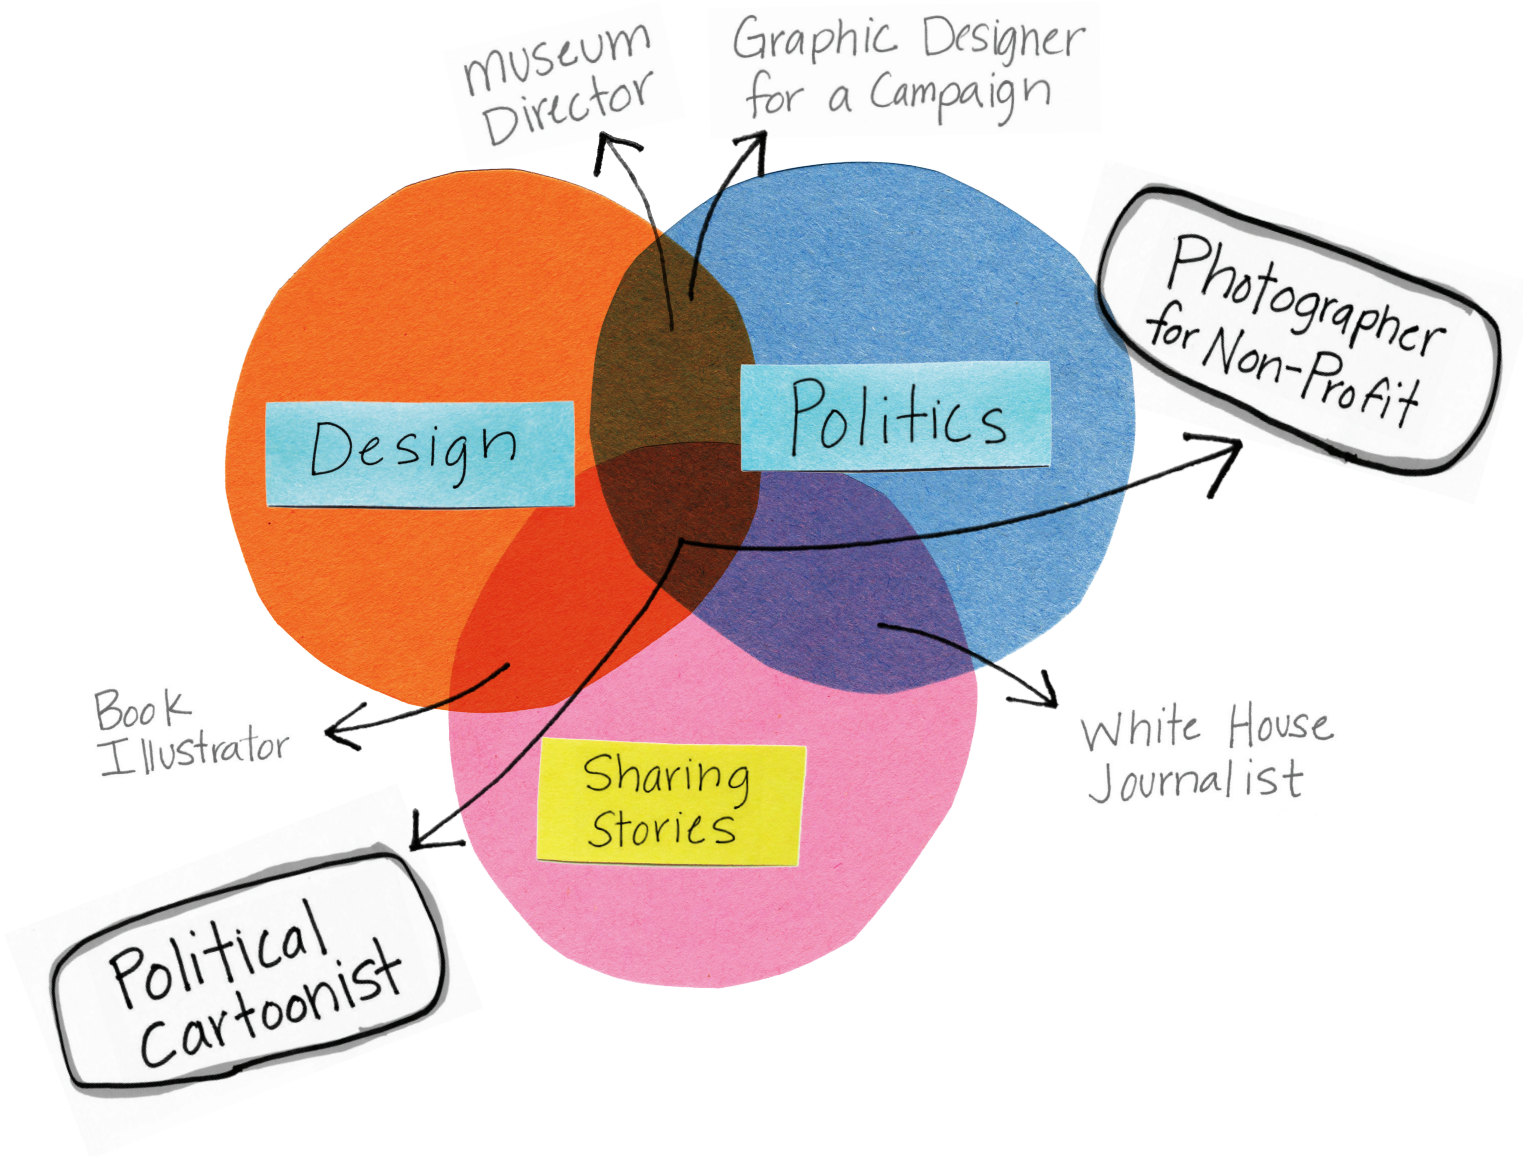

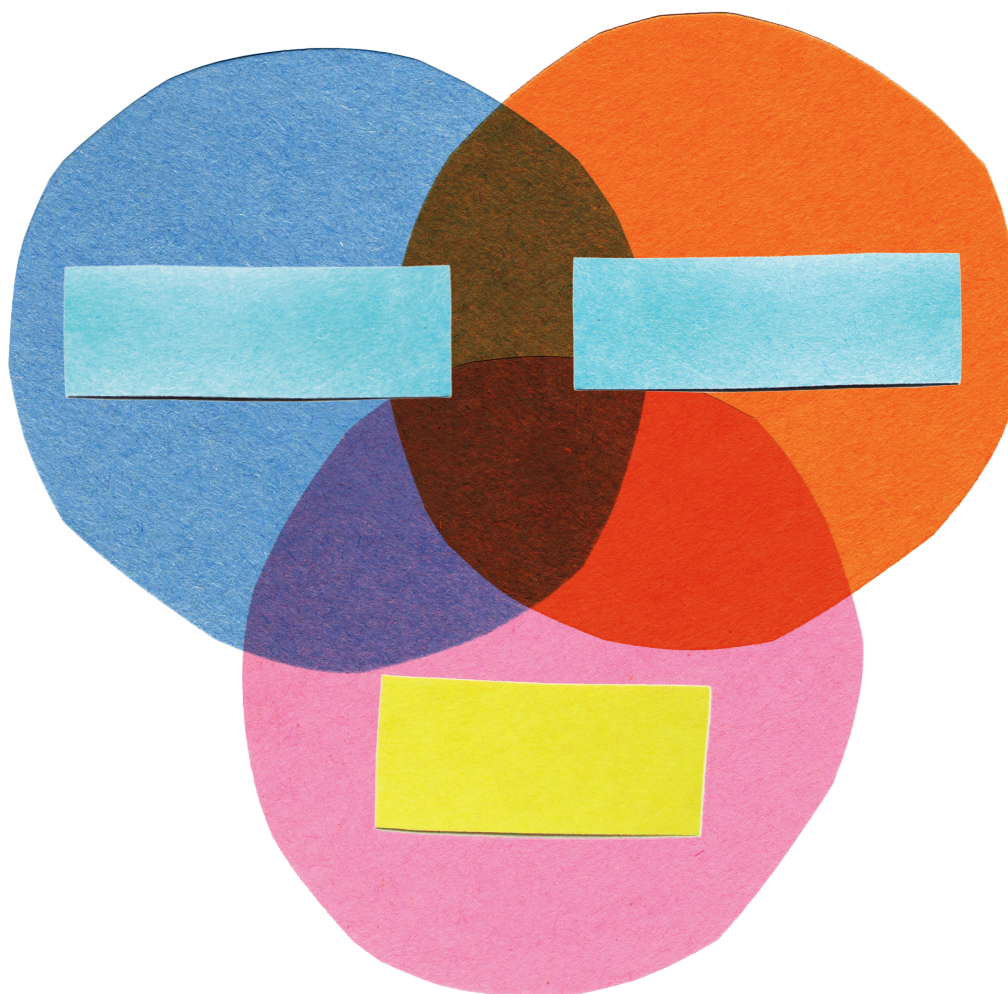

Circle five Interests that you are currently pursuing or would like to pursue in your future.

MIX IT UP

Name _____ Date _____ Period _____

Using the diagram below, add one of your Foundations and mix it up with two of the Interests you circled. Next, come up with possible careers or products that combine your Foundation and two Interests. Don't hold back your imagination or get rid of any possibilities. Make up something that doesn't yet exist—go to crazy town. We've also included another example to show you how combining seemingly opposite Interests can create new possibilities.

Take this a bit further. Look at all the occupations you came up with and think about the following question: What possibilities are you the most excited about exploring further, and why? Grab a highlighter, pen, or anything you like, and single out the one or two that you are most excited about exploring.